ABOUT FRRR

The Foundation for Rural and Regional Renewal (FRRR) champions the economic and social strength of Australia's rural, regional and remote communities through partnerships with the private sector, philanthropy and governments. FRRR encourages innovation and creativity in rural, regional and remote communities, delivering a range of grant programs, and supporting capacity development within communities. For more about FRRR see www.frrr.org.au.

There is $100,000 available nationally to assist communities in adopting one of the seven Heywire ideas. Organisations can apply for a grant of up to $10,000 to pilot a Heywire project.

Successful applicants will have control over how the project is implemented in their community, but will be encouraged to contact the young people who initially developed the idea (facilitated by Heywire). Applications that adapt the project idea to their local situation are strongly encouraged. Projects that can demonstrate local youth involvement in the project's management and implementation will receive preference.

WHAT CAN BE FUNDED?

- Funds are available to implement or pilot one of the seven 2017 Heywire ideas.
- Projects must be undertaken September 2017 to September 2018.
- Projects must take place in regional Australia, as defined by ABC Heywire, i.e. outside of Adelaide, Brisbane, Melbourne, Perth or Sydney.

WHO CAN APPLY?

All not-for-profit community based organisations with an ABN or Incorporation Certificate. One application per organisation. Check with FRRR if you are unsure about your eligibility.

WHAT CANNOT BE FUNDED?

- Business-as-usual operating costs and administration will not be funded.
- Applications from sporting organisations need to clearly demonstrate a benefit to the wider community.
- Projects that do not have any youth involvement.
- Groups that have overdue final reports with FRRR are not eligible.

WHAT INFORMATION IS ESSENTIAL TO INCLUDE?

- Applications must use the current form and keep to the space provided.
- All supporting material must be submitted with the application (see form for checklist).
- Applications must be signed by the legal head of the organisation, or they will not be considered.

WHAT MAKES A STRONG APPLICATION?

- Involve local youth in the project's management and implementation.
- Clearly articulate the need in your community, as well as the project's desired outcomes.
- Have detailed project plans, which include key tasks, people, responsibilities, resources required, timelines, outputs, strategies for engaging youth and the evaluation of impact.
- Demonstrate community partnerships. Communities that submit one application will receive preference over those that submit multiple applications.
- Include letters of support from organisations directly involved in the project, local organisations working with young people and local youth.
- Demonstrate financial or in-kind contributions towards the project. If your group can't contribute or source support from the community, explain why.
- Attach quotes to support the budget where applicable, including discounts or donations.
- Demonstrate appropriate policies and procedures if working directly with children.
